

RE-ENTRÉE

Sure, summer is sublime, but glamorous fall is for grown-ups — it's when major cultural forces typically release their finest salvos, and we've prepped you for all the fireworks. From the most reelingly gorgeous fashion and the most compelling art exhibits across the globe to happenings in your own backyard, here is PaperCity's comprehensive guide to where you need to be, where to stay and what to see, eat, read, wear and experience to be culturally clued-in this fall. Consider this a back-to-school crash course for the chic set.

Where to Live

The Penthouse to Have: Museum Tower

Almost 9,000 square feet. Ceilings that stretch 14 feet high. Curved-glass walls looking out over, well, everything. Whose name will end up on the deed? Unless you're number one on that waiting list, you'll have to wait till Spring 2010 to find out. museumtowerdallas.com; briggs-freeman.com. Rob Brinkley
